VID-OE Recording Software

Q-FI Solutions was founded in 2011 by a team with in-depth knowledge of the Market Research industry.

One of the unique benefits of working with us is we are experienced software users turned innovators and creators of rock star technology. We are naturally inspired to move forward and grow within the survey software space.

Using the latest technology, we deliver modern and intuitive applications to generate valuable and reliable insights and make research more attractive for your clients. Q-FI Solutions combines decades of survey programming experience with modern software development expertise and provides sophisticated and powerful solutions.

We are extremely responsive to user requests and implement new functionalities faster than anyone else. Our vast experience in software development and data collection has led to the development of multiple innovative web-based applications for market research agencies and enterprises with an internal MR function.

Our most recent creations, designed for companies of all sizes, include Q-FI and VID-OE. We also have a team dedicated to developing custom software applications and are readily available to meet with you and discuss how we can help you.
